READING

Part 1

Mary's Story

Mary is fourteen years old. She's a great Britney Spears fan.

Two weeks ago Mary saw a big poster at the railway station: Britney Spears World Tour in Great Britain – a concert in Wembley on July 8th.

Mary was excited. "I'll go there and I'll see her! I'll hear her sing live!!!"

In the evening she told her mum about the concert and asked, "Can I go there, mum, please?" "Yes, okay," her mum said, "you can go." Then Mary and her mother had a nice chicken salad for dinner and talked about Britney and the concert.

The next day Mary took all her pocket money, went to the ticket counter and bought a ticket for the concert.

In the evening she phoned her aunt Claude and uncle Bill and told them about the concert.

A week later Mary wrote into her diary: "Today is my special day. I'm very excited. Today I'm going to see HER with my own eyes. I want to look really beautiful tonight." In the afternoon she put on her make-up and got dressed. Finally she left the house and took the underground to Wembley.

A little later she arrived at the underground station in Wembley, but there were only a few people around. Mary was surprised and a bit worried. "Maybe there's no concert today. Or maybe there's something wrong with Britney. Maybe she's ill. Oh, no, I hope not!!" she thought. "I want to see her so badly, she can't be ill!"

When she arrived at the ticket counter at Wembley Stadium, she asked a lady what was wrong. The lady explained, "Today is July 7th, so you're too early for the Britney Spears concert – it'll be tomorrow."

"Thank God Britney is okay. I didn't check my calendar," Mary thought. "I'll be here again tomorrow, then," she told the lady at the counter and they both laughed.
